

CONSERVATION AND WORKING LANDSCAPES

A unique opportunity exists in the County of San Diego to coordinate current and future Natural Community Conservation Planning (NCCP) programs such as the Multiple Species Conservation Program (MSCP) with incentives to encourage agriculture, forestry and other working landscapes.

The County of San Diego hosted a forum titled "Conservation and Working Landscapes: A Forum on Incentives" on November 19, 2002 to explore potential programs and strategies to benefit both working landscapes and wildlife habitat.

The County intends to continue these discussions with the agricultural community in a Public Workshop to be hosted in Summer 2003.
